November Tips for being the Hostess with Most-ess:

Dinner parties seem to bring a variety of appetites to the table. The most common today are vegetarians, vegans and dairy-free. If you want to be considered the hostess with the most-ess, it's about being conscience of which guests have specific dietary requirements. A great way to make those guests feel welcome and comfortable at the dinner table is by asking them ahead of time, that way you can incorporate specialized items into your dinner menu. A hostess can really stand-out by caring about each guest's individual needs. Going that extra mile will only enhance your dinner party's atmosphere.
